I commend the government's steadfast commitment to promoting inclusivity and ensuring sufficient living accommodations for everyone.

The announcement of constructing an additional twenty million houses through the Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana - Gramin highlights a visionary approach to broaden affordable housing opportunities in rural areas. This deliberate step not only addresses the housing needs of rural communities but also propels growth in the housing sector within these regions.

The government's dedication to enhancing the accessibility of affordable housing is evident in the latest budget, fostering a sense of security and pride among the rural population.

The establishment of a Rs1 lakh crore corpus with a 50-year interest-free loan is a significant stride, providing long-term financing support with favorable terms, further boosting confidence and catalysing growth in the real estate landscape.
